

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. Saturday Morning, Jan. 10

SUBSCRIPTION RATES. OFFICE: 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

A child of G. A. Moore lies dangerously ill at his residence on Frank street.

Meetings at the Broadway M. E. church will probably be continued all next week.

The handsome pair of blankets donated to the Catholic fair by Cooke & Morgan, was won by F. W. Spelman.

The installation of the officers of the Odd Fellows' lodge has been postponed until the 13th, when it will take place in Beno's hall.

Rev. J. W. Cowan, of Tabor, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church to-morrow, morning and evening.

The jury in the Caff Johnson murder case went out at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at 10 o'clock last night had reached no verdict.

The brick block in course of erection by A. Ritter, next to the Creston House, will be pushed to completion if the weather permits.

The Irish drama, "Eileen Oge," was given yesterday afternoon and evening at the opera house for the benefit of the Catholic fair fund.

The funeral of the late George Dougherty was held yesterday afternoon, and was under the auspices of the I. O. O. F., of which order he was an old and greatly esteemed member.

Ex-Mayor Boyd, of Omaha, did not attend the Hickory ball held in this city Wednesday evening, but he wrote a letter to Mayor Vaughan giving a condensed sketch of the life of Gen. Jackson.

He also "regretted" that he could not attend the ball.

"Out of the joys and griefs of earth, Death proclaims a glorious birth." Spiritual circle to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon and evening at 2 and 7:30 o'clock in Spiritual hall, entrance on Main and Pearl streets, two doors south of the post office.

W. H. England, who has been adjutant for the Council Bluffs Insurance Co., left last evening for Dakota, where he will serve as adjutant for another company.

Before he left he gave a supper at Louie's restaurant to the employees of the company who in return extended their good will toward him by presenting him with an elegant gold-headed cane.

A Herald reporter claims to have found the smallest person for the age in the city in little Bessie, one of the twin daughters of J. P. Cochran, who lives at 12 1/2 Harrison street.

She is 18 months old, as smart as a cricket, and only weighs 18 pounds. But the man who steals the BEE from the door of a barber shop, is older and still smaller, and not nearly so smart.

Some subscribers, especially on business streets, complain that sneaks steal their BEE. If any one will give information leading to the conviction of any such thieves, a liberal reward will be given.

The papers sold to newboys for this office are all stamped "Newboy," and any one offering for sale on the streets any papers not thus marked should be reported to this office at once.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Sheely was held yesterday at the Catholic church, of which she had been for years a faithful member.

The remains are to be taken to Clinton, Iowa, and buried beside those of her husband, who died several years ago.

She was 79 years of age, and leaves several children: Mrs. John O'Donnell, at whose home in this city she was cared for during her last illness, two sons, one living in Clay county, Nebraska, the other in Denver.

PUNCHING THE POLICE.

Marshal Guannella's Charges of Cruelty to Prisoners.

Rather Weak Support of Charge of Robbing Drunken Men.

The Evidence Taken.

The police committee consisting of Aldermen Mynster, Geise and McMahon, met yesterday afternoon to investigate the charges preferred by Marshal Guannella against the police force.

There has been for some time an ill feeling between the marshal's department and the police department, illustrating again what this BEE has so often contended that these departments should work together under one chief, as it is a failure for them to attempt to play the Stomach twin act.

Marshal Guannella before the committee claimed that Officer O'Brien had gone into the jail, where a United States army deserter was in custody, and offered the prisoner half of the $30 reward if he would admit to O'Brien that he was a deserter, and would go with him across the river to Omaha.

The marshal also claimed that when it was supposed that there was a $50 reward offered for the prisoner Jerome, that after Jerome had been arrested and booked, several other officers claimed that they visited him, and made such entries on the register, whereas only one officer arrested and one entry on the book was enough.

He charged that Officer O'Brien was abusing prisoners after they were in the jail building, as to abusing prisoners in the jail proper, all he claimed to know was what prisoners told him.

He said that two of them said that Officer Cusick came in at night and kicked and abused them. The marshal could not produce those prisoners as witnesses.

He also said that prisoners had claimed the policemen robbed them of money. He did not know anything of this, either of his own personal knowledge, and did not know where any of these complainants were now.

One was named Ollinger, who claimed that O'Brien had got some from him. He claimed that he had $9 when arrested of which O'Brien only turned over $2.30.

The only complaint that he was personally conversant with was that policeman after getting prisoners into the building, before putting them in the cells used them more roughly than there was any need of.

Officer O'Brien denied the charges so far as they referred to him. As to the "Cute" case, he arrested him, and on the way to the station "Cute" resisted some and was very abusive.

On reaching the door of the building he made a lunge at Cusick and the latter grabbed him by the collar, ran him in and in the scuffle struck "Cute" with his fist.

Mr. Dougherty, who was with Cusick at the time, said that Cusick was mad because Cusick would not let go of his arm, and then tried to jerk away. After getting inside Cusick grabbed Cuto and choked him up against the wall.

Officer O'Brien denied that he kicked the other prisoners in jail, as stated by the marshal. He did visit the jail the night referred to, and in company with Capt. Halshaw.

The captain testified in full corroboration of this statement of Mr. Cusick's.

Officer O'Brien explained that in regard to Ollinger that he and Officer Brooks had to drag the prisoner from the opera house to the station, he was so drunk. On the way some of the money dropped out of his pocket on the street, near Pat Lucy's, and after that was picked up, the rest dropped out near O'Neill's store, and was picked up by O'Brien.

There was only $2.50 which was properly turned over, and there were several witnesses to these facts. If the man had more money it must have been lost or spent by the prisoner in his drunken condition.

Officer Brooks corroborated the statement, and other witnesses were named who could be interviewed by the committee.

In regard to striking Still Bates, Officer O'Brien explained that he got Bates to the station all right but when inside Bates became abusive and struck at him. Guannella did not offer to help, but laughed, saying, "He's too much for you, O'Brien."

As Bates struck at him again, Officer O'Brien pulled his billy and struck once but did not hit him. Guannella then grabbed O'Brien and Dougherty grabbed Bates, and kept them apart.

The committee adjourned to investigate still further next Monday.

Dr. C. C. Hazen, Dentist, 100 Main st. Resting in Peace.

Yesterday morning, at about half-past nine o'clock, death visited the family residence of S. T. Walker, senior member of the Herald printing company, and here from thence the wife and mother.

Mrs. Annie E. Walker has been a resident of this place for nearly twenty years past. She was born in Springfield, Ohio, in 1844.

For some years past she has been a patient sufferer, and for a year past has been gradually fading, a victim of the dread disease, consumption. As is usual, just at the last she seemed to be recovering, and her death comes as a shock to her friends.

She was identified with the Presbyterian church of this place, having been a member of that church since her youth. During her residence here she had gained many friends by her consistent Christian life and warm friendliness.

Her parents, who reside at Springfield, Ohio, have been telegraphed to, and it is not yet known when the funeral services will take place. The time will be duly announced.

The Hickory Ball. Among the many strangers, or more properly, non residents of the city in attendance at the hickory ball may be mentioned, C. S. Higgins, Pat Fallon, A. E. Cogshall, Richard Shannon, G. H. Wood and wife and Jacob Williams, of Omaha, J. R. Katikan, Fremont county; W. B. Cuppy, Avoca; I. M. Sigger, Boomer township; Robert Dale, Carson; Ferd H. Plamer and sister, Wyman and wife, Keg Creek; John and Joachim Star and Hans Vonbenth, Minden; Fred Kimple and Ed Nelmer, Logan; A. B. Perkins and wife, Keg Creek; M. DeLisle, Lewis township; John Archer, Fremont county; Miss Rosa Roberts, Omaha; Wm. R. White, Chicago, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry will give a birthday reception this evening, in honor of their daughter, Miss Tracy.

A BOX FACTORY.

It is Added to the Enterprises of Council Bluffs.

Mr. A. B. Howe, who has a most complete feed mill at the corner of North Sixth and Mills street, is embarking on the additional enterprise of manufacturing wooden boxes, such as pop-bottle boxes, cracker boxes, etc. He has excellent power and some machinery, and will increase the facilities as the business warrants. He has already orders for several hundred boxes, and is figuring on some large contracts. Every new manufacturing enterprise is a welcome addition to the city, and this particularly so. It is possible that the manufacture of cigar boxes may be added to the enterprise, and it is hoped that sufficient encouragement and support may be gained to warrant the growth of the enterprise so that in time it may give employment to a large number of hands.

The stag then put his head down between his fore legs, throwing himself clean over, heels over head, several times. It was indeed a wild, wonderful, and a most unusual sight. The stag's efforts were at last successful, and getting clear of his murderous enemy he galloped off. The eagle was, however, speedily up again and in full chase; but his intended victim made his escape sure by rushing full speed down the hill into the Glassburn woods. The eagle, rather ruffled in his plumage, and no doubt much ruffled in his temper, soared aloft to look for his dinner elsewhere. It was a hard and well fought battle, worthy of being delineated by the pencil of Landseer. The eagle was a splendid specimen of its kind, and of unusual size. He appeared to be much larger than the Glenstrathfarraig eagles, and is supposed to be a poacher from the north or west. His plumage was dark brown, with some white or gray on the surface of the tail feathers; the crown of the head was tawny, the legs and beak yellow, and the claws black.

NEWSPAPER AND ORGAN.

If, besides the newspapers, there must be partisan organs these ought to be distinct and separate in their field of operations—as distinct as the newspapers and the monthly magazines now are. Absolute independence of the partisan elements in its news pages, whatever may be the bias of its editorial columns, should be the rule of every newspaper worthy of the name. The organ need not be more untruthful than the partisan newspapers are now. It is to be hoped that it would not. But at least the onerous task of lying, misrepresenting, and traducing characters and motives could be put upon the politicians who manage the other departments of political work not dissimilar to this. The frequent appearance during the heated contests of ephemeral campaign dailies, run directly by the campaign committees, shows that the politicians will be ready to take up this work as soon as the newspapers will be ready to lay it down. The division of labor here pleaded for would render it no longer necessary for great journals, when the quadrennial madness is upon them, to publish barefaced falsehoods in their news pages, and to permit a distinct lowering of the tone of their editorial views for partisan ends. There is much in the history and present attitude of both of the leading political parties which honest adherents cannot justify, and they will not always submit to seeing newspapers, so-called, complacently praising good and bad alike. The work of the organs and the newspapers thus separated, the former would naturally be published at Washington, Albany, Harrisburg, Trenton and other centers of political interest, while the newspapers would remain in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and the other great centers of population. The intelligent reader and voter might like both an organ and a newspaper to consult; just as he might at table like both soup and fish, but, as he does not want his soup and fish in the same dish, he will prefer his organ and his newspaper to be entirely distinct and different enterprises. Each is well enough in its way, but their ways are not the same and cannot be made so.
